OF ARABICA BEANS AND A CRESCENT MOON...

The place we are staying at is beautiful. We have a suite at the marriott Grand Hotel on Mobile Bay.

As I sit here on the patio, an old southern water oak is twenty feet away surrounded by manicured hedge and a ~~a~~ of bright spring grass. Twenty feet beyond that is a white sand beach and the salty pungent water of mobile (OR BAY)

POINT CLEAR

Point Clear, Alabama 36564-0639 (251) 928-9201

There was a beautiful, crescent moon with her spring time companion, Venus in dark sky filled with bright white stars.

I watched for a long time as the moon followed Venus to the horizon, growing ever larger until Venus dissapeared and the moon took center stage. A smokey blood orange crescent due to the haze in the distance.

Bay. Twenty miles down the bay is the gulf of Mexico.

A shrimp trawler sets out on the bay with its net boom cast far to the side trying to fill the hold with today's take.

Last night, I sat on the patio with a cup of coffee and a ~~a~~ I endulged in my habit of tobacco breathing in the ocean tinged air. The gentle sound of waves on the shore filling my ears and adding to the ambience. I hang on in life for moments like this.

My late grandmother would have called it a "water moon" in that the crescent was turned upwards holding the water thus forecasting no rain tomorrow. If the crescent were to be turned downward then the water would spill out onto earth casting if to rain the next day ~~tomorrow~~.

What a beautiful setting and a treasured memory to carry home with me on Sunday.

Beauty is a silver Lining
One picture is as strong as a thousand words
Every cloud is worth a thousand tears
A chain makes right
Time for an eye
Night waits for no man
An eye like son
Money talks as you would have them do unto you
Like father, bullshit walks
Do unto others ever spilled milk
A woman's place is an island
It's no use crying in the home
No man before beauty
Those who live in glass houses are free
Age shouldn't throw stones
The best things in life don't make a right
Nice guys finish last
Two wrongs finish all your eggs and eat it too
Don't put
While the cat's away the harder they fall
You can't have your cake, the mice will play
The bigger they are, no glory
Once burned, that ends well
No guts, twice shy
All's well is a great woman
Diamonds can serve two masters
Behind every great man are a girl's best friend
No man is paved with good intentions
Every dog
The road to hell has its day
